

Let's say the team has 8 men and only 3 women

Teams cannot use the rotating lineup with less than 3 women

In the lineup below, men/nonbinary 7 and 8 will share spots with men/nonbinary 2 and 3

Inning 1	Inning 2	Inning 3	Inning 4
Man/Nonbinary 1	Man/Nonbinary 1	Man/Nonbinary 1	Man/Nonbinary 1
Man/Nonbinary 2	Man/Nonbinary 7*	Man/Nonbinary 2	Man/Nonbinary 7
Woman 1	Woman 1	Woman 1	Woman 1
Man/Nonbinary 3	Man/Nonbinary 8*	Man/Nonbinary 3	Man/Nonbinary 8
Man/Nonbinary 4	Man/Nonbinary 4	Man/Nonbinary 4	Man/Nonbinary 4
Woman 2	Woman 2	Woman 2	Woman 2
Man/Nonbinary 5	Man/Nonbinary 5	Man/Nonbinary 5	Man/Nonbinary 5
Man/Nonbinary 6	Man/Nonbinary 6	Man/Nonbinary 6	Man/Nonbinary 6
Woman 3	Woman 3	Woman 3	Woman 3

*Man/Nonbinary 7 and 8 must share a spot with another man/nonbinary in the batting order. It does not matter which batter they share the spot with; only that they share the spot with the same batter throughout the game

Essentially man/nonbinary 2, 3, 7 and 8 will only bat every other time their 'spot' comes up in the order, since they have to share a spot

Notes:

This is our newer lineup that some teams have trouble grasping, but others have been (illegally) using for several seasons.

Teams may only use this lineup if they have a minimum of 9 men/nonbinary and 4 women - teams may not use this lineup with less than 4 women.

What this lineup does is allows all of the men to bat without having to share a spot in the batting order.

Teams will create a lineup for men/nonbinary, a separate lineup for women, and insert the women after every 2nd man/nonbinary batter.

The order for the men/nonbinary must stay the same, but the order for the women will rotate - hence the name rotating lineup.

Let's say a team has 9 men/nonbinary and 4 women.

This lineup requires the team using it to pay a bit more attention than they normally may, but it's easy to do as long as one player is tracking it.

If you identify as nonbinary/genderqueer/prefer not to answer we ask that you please bat in any spot deemed 'player' and leave the spots deemed for 'women' for the players whose gender identity is female/woman.

Please know that we are striving to create an inclusive environment and recognize that this is not perfect.

We promise to continue to investigate better ways to communicate and offer the best league possible for everyone.

If you have any suggestions, we would love to hear them so please email Jaime@pump.org
